S. CAHN'S STRANGE SUICIDE.

HE INHALES ILLUMINATING GAS THROUGH A RUBBER TUBE.

He Was an Old Real Estate Dealer of Kansas City, but Tired of a Struggle and Coolly Courted Death.

The latest victim of the spicide epidemi which has swept the city the past few days is Siegmund Cahn, a well known real estate dealer. He killed himself by inaling illuminating gas in his office in the Hammerslough building at the Southwest cerner of Fifth and Main streets, Friday night. His body was found at 5 o'clock yesterday morning by William Lemmons, the negro janitor, who went to the office to sweep out. Cahn was lying on his back on a small sofa, one end of a rubber hosin his mouth. The other end of the hose can attached to the gas jet, just above him. The hose was wrapped in a coll was attached to the gas jet, just above him. The hose was wrapped in a coil about his right wrist, which lay across his breast, thus insuring that it could not drop out of his mouth when unconsciousness selzed him. Mr. Cahn clearly wanted to make certain of death.

When Janitor Lemmons opened Mr. Cahn's office door yesterday morning the odor of the gas almost stifled him. Making his way to a window he threw it open and let the fresh air pour in. Then in a strail room, into which Cahn had removed the sofa from the front office, he saw Cahn's body. He shook the man he supposed to be asleep and getting no response called in Captain J. T. Welch. of the Pretective bureau, who has an office on the same floor. It took hut a giance for the captain to decide that Cahn was dead, but he urged the janitor to call in Dr. Frank Bell, who has a room on the third floor of the building. Dr. Bell said that Cahn was beyond medical assistance and a policeman called Deputy Coroner Wheeler. Cahn's body was removed to Wasper's morgue on Grand avenue.

Cahn had been in business in Kansas City for lifteen years and had always been a hard drinker. He probably decided on succide while suffering from mental deprecision induced by his excesses. Dr. J. W. Foster, who has an office, says that Cahn had been contemplating suicids for some months. On different occasions he had asked the doctor how best death could be courted. The doctor told him to jump into the river. Cahn thought this would be too videou and asked the name of the mest deadly drug. The doctor coulded answering this question. Some time are of the mest deadly drug. The doctor was deadly drug. The doctor coulded answering this question. Some time are of the mest deadly drug. The doctor was deadly drug. were gone it made no difference what was used. He was afraid Cahn would get hold of some of the poison.

At 4 o'clock Friday afternoon Cahn entered Dr. Foster's office. He was under the influence of liquor and seemed bent on talking suicide. The many suicides of the past week were discussed. Most of them had used powder and ball. Cahn asked Dr. Foster what he thought of that style. "It's at least very effective," replied the doctor. Glancing up at a rubber hose that attached the small gas stove in the doctor's office to the gas jet above, Cahn asked the doctor what it had cost.

"I don't know," replied the doctor, "but I think about $1."

"If a man would place the end of the hose in his mouth, place the other end over a gas jet and turn on the gas would it kill him? asked Cahn.

"It would kill him in a very few minutes," replied Dr. Foster.

Ochock, when Dr. Foster was reading a book in his office, Cahn came in. In reply to a question as to what he was doing downtown so late, Cahn said that he just wanted to see how things were going on.

"I never saw him in the building after nightfall before," said Dr. Foster yester-day. Half an hour later, as Dr. Foster stood drinking a glass of soda in Arnold's drug store, just across Fifth street from th Hammerslough building, Cahn walked past.

"Tm. going home," he said to Dr. Foster."

th Hammersiough building, Cahn walked past.

"I'm going home." he said to Dr. Foster, as he passed the store.

"All right. Come down early in the morning." said the doctor.

"I' will." Mr. Cahn replied, as he went across the street. Instead of going home. Cahn went to his office, took his sofa out of one room, piaced it in the smaller one, closed the windows, placed the end of a rubber tube he had bought on one of the gas jets and, putting the other end in his mouth, turned on the gas and lay down to dle. The transoms in the office had been tightly closed by Janitor Lemmons, on Mr. Cahn's order, the day before.

Cahn was 2 years old, and leaves a widow and two sons, who live at 1216 Mc-Gee street. In spite of the unmistakable evidence of suicide, they said yesterday that the death was accidental. Some of Cahn's friends also think he went to his office drunk and accidentally turned on the gas.

Cahn was born in Hesse-Cassel, Germany.

To Sweep a Room.

From the Boston Journal.

How to sweep a room and not throw dust in the air is one of the things that always punzles the best of housekeepers.

When expedient it is always best to set movable things outside of the room, throw open all the doors and windows and "sweep for dear life," trusting to the draught to take the dust out, but one can't always do that. Wetting the broom, even though most of the water is slinken out, is sure to leave spots on the carpet, and sait is positively injurious to carpet and health.

It makes a carpet sticky and attracts moisture. Squeezed ten leaves scattered over the carpet clean it nicely, but not a drap of ies must be left in. Damp sawdust is excellent, but not always available. Bits of paper squeezed out of water and scattered will do effective work. One nice old lady cuts up bits of white cotton—she has about a peck of it—and after dipping it in water, squeezes it dry and sprinkles over her carpet.

After sweeping she throws the refuse into

The murderer who, at dead of night, ereeps, stealthily out to bury the dead and mangied body of his victim inspires men with horror and dread. There is a murderer abroad who yearly slays one sixth of all the human race who go down to untimely deaths. This dread monster is called consumption. The approach of consumption is slow and The approach of consumption is slow and insidious. First there is a slight disorder of the digestion. The appetite is poor and the nourishing properties of the food are not properly assimilated. The blood becomes thin and impure. The body begins to starve. Old tissues of the bedy are not properly replaced by new. The lung tissues are not properly nourished and are inert and half dead. In this condition they offer a good soil for the germs of consumption which invade and attack them.

This operation is promptly reversed by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It invigorates the digestion and appetite and makes assimilation perfect. It builds up and purifies the blood. It makes new and healthy tissue to replace the old, inert matter which it causes to be carried off. It

Miss Laura Piersel of East Bethlehem, Washington Co., Pa., writes: "I must write you telling you of the great benefit derived from the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Last summer my friends thought I was surely going into consumption, and having tried doctors with no ratisfactory results and hearing your medicine so highly spoken of, I took one bottle. My cough left me begether with all the distressing symptoms, and in fact the cure seemed almost miraculous to all who saw me."

DISTINGUISHED MEXICANS.

x-Governor of Chihunhua and Party Visit Kansas City on a Long Tour of the United States.

Luis Terrazas, of Chihuahua, Mexico, who was for twenty years governor of that state and who is to-day the largest ranch owner in Mexico, is at the Midland. With his family and the family of his son. Iuan Terrazas; his son-in-law, E. C. Creel, and family; his physician, Dr. M. M. Marcus, and a half dozen servants, he is making a three months' pleasure tour of the United States. The trip is being made under the direction of Mr. Fred Fenchler, of El Paso, Tex., who has been associated with Mr. Terrazas in a business way for many of large dwellings that are in course of erection.

The party is traveling in a special Pullman car that is fitted with all the comman car that is fitted with all the comforts of a paiace and enables them to travel with all possible comfort on the long trip. The party reached the city on the Santa Fe yesterday morning and went at once to the Midland. After breakfast they drove to the stock yards, where they saw the morning's business disposed of, after which they returned to the hotel for luncheou that was served in Jhe banquetchamber. During the afternoon the visitors were driven about the city and saw the business and residence portion. They were especially pleased at the wide boundaries of the liner residence districts, the boulevard improvements and the number of large dwellings that are in course of of large dwellings that are in course of erection.

This morning they will isave over the Santa Fe for Chicago, where they will spend a portion of the week, possibly all of it, after which they will continue the trip to New York, Boston and back to Baltimore and Washington, and then across the South to their home.

Mr. Terrazas has retired from politics and is devoting himself now to attending to his many business interests. He is owner of great ranches in Mexico, from which he markets many thousands of cattle annually, and is also a banker of prominence and high standing. His son-in-law, Mr. Creel, is managing his banking interests, which are very large, and is associated with him in all business reclations. They do a considerable business with Kamas City annually and are well informed as to the general condition of business in the city.

to the general condition of business in city.

Mr. Creel said yesterday to a reporter for The Journal that he had not been in Kansas City for sixteen years and was hardly prepared to see so many changes as were visible all over the city. He knew the city had grown materially in that time, but did not expect to find it so great.

While in the East Mr. Creel will devote while in the rast ar. Creek will devote some time to completing the formation of a company to build a railroad he has promoted running from Chihauhua to the Pacific coast which is said to open up much valuable territory and reach a part of the republic that will make it exceedingly valuable.

republic that will make it exceedingly suable.

Mr. Itaan Terrazas owns and operates the largest soap works in Mexico and has just completed a large brewery that will begin work June 1, and after that time supply a large part of the Mexican trade.

Mr. Tarragas recently returned from a prolonged stay in Europe. While he was out inspecting his cattle and watching the herds divided he was thrown from his horse and his collar bone was broken. He has not yet recovered from the injury and for that reason has his physician travel with him.

FREE BATH PROPOSITION. Helping Hand Offers to Supply the Need for $1,000 Per Year.

The following offer from the Helping Hand to fit up a free bathhouse has been received by Alderman Morgan, who thinks the proposition a good one, and will doubtless bring his influence to bear for its ac-ceptance by the city:

"Nearly every city of any size in the ountry has inaugurated public free baths. country has inaugurated public free baths. They began in Baltimore, in the Wayfarer's lodging house, which the city council of that city fitted up at a cost of $3,000. We are deeply interested in this matter, and if the city council will back the institute with a reasonable amount, say $1,000, we will agree to give Kansas City a free bath system that will reflect credit upon our city and upon our common humanity. The mayor and the members of both houses of the common council are all in hearty sympathy with the Helping Hand institute, and we desire to make you, and through you the city council, this proposition:

"We will further pledge the council that we will make every effort to add material and substantial private subscriptions to the free bath fund, from citizens who have already expressived a willingness to aid us in free bath fund, from citizens who have al-ready expressed a willingness to aid us in this movement. We believe most thor-oughly in the plan, and are satisfied that it can be made a pronounced success." The following indorse the communication: W. W. Kendall, D. O. Smart, J. C. Horton, George W. Kansas City School Principals Pass Resolutions on Prof. Buchanan's Departure for New York.

The last conference of the public school principals for this year was held in the board of education rooms yesterday morning. The chief subject for disboard of education rooms yesterday morning. The chief subject for discussion was the "Placing of Teachers in the Grades." Mrs. Josephine Heermans, principal of the Whittier school, led the discussion with a paper. Principals G. B. Morrison, of the manual training school, and G. B. Longan, of the Humboldt school, also discussed the subject. Principal Lengan then introduced the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the principals: "Whereas, Dr. J. T. Buchanan has been called to a higher field of educational work in the Greater New York, and "Whereas, By virtue of his accurate scholarship, indomitable energy, strong executive ability, thorough and quick mastery of details, and unswerving fidelity to duty, he has made the Kansas City high school one of the best, if not the best, high school in the country; therefore, be it "Resolved, That while we, his associate ward principals, sincerely regret his departure, which severs his connection with this body, yet he takes with him to his new home our heartfelt sympathy for his success and happiness, and the abiding assurance that he will be as successful in New York as he has been in this city. "Resolved, That his faithful and unselfish work in the interest of education and the upbuilding of Kansas City have placed the citizens under a debt of gratitude to him, which they can never repay."

Professor Buchanan responded with much feeling to the praise of his fellow principals. He said that his success was largely due to the support given him by the principals of Small schools and the principals. He said that his success was largely due to the support given him by the principals of the ward schools and the good counsel of Superintendent J. M. Greenwood.

CADET FIELD DAY.

Some Excellent Contests at Exposition Park-Winners in the Several Events.

The first annual field day of the Central high school cadets at Exposition Driving park yesterday proved a complete success. It was the first time in the history of the public schools that an afternoon was develed to competitive athletics on the part of the pupils. At 2:30 the programme opened with a battalion dress parade by the cadets. Major Kelsey put the boys through difficult battalion movements and they might have been envied by even those longer trained in military drill. The three companies composing the battalion then gave a competitive drill. Lieutenant Bawers. Company B. Third regiment, acted as the judges. Company R. and Lieutenant Bewers. Company D. Third regiment, acted as the judges. Company B proved the best drilled, but its captain made a costly blunder by putting the company through some "fancy" drills, while the points to be judged were simply regulation drills. On account of this blunder Company B lost one point in Se, giving the prize to Company A. In the individual drill, Corporal Daniel Saunders, of Company B, won The first annual field day of the Central

Serious Trouble With Morocco in Prospect-Algeria Invaded

by the Moors. Paris, May 15.-There are indications of the possibility of serious trouble between France and Morocco, owing to the incursion of Moorish tribesmen into Algerian territory. These Moors, it appears, recently revolted against the authority of the governor of Cudida, a town near the French frontier, and on Tuesday attempted to seize an Algerian village. The latest news from the scene of disturbance is that a column of French cavalry is being massed on the frontier of Morocco and two companies of zounves and a number of tirallieures, with several field pieces, have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to leave Oran, the port of Algeria nearest to Morocco. A rumor is also in circulation to the effect that a squadron of Spahis (Arabian cavairy in the French service) has been surprised by the Moors near Maginia, who fired several volleys at the Spahis, wounding thirty. The commander of the Spahis was wounded.

Saudatons—"Don't you believe it is true?"

Wickerly—"Bosh, no! It's absurd on the face of it. Take my own case, for instance. In the first place, I've known my fiances for years, and yet it wasn't three weeks after I met her before I understood her thoroughly."

Sandstons—"Are you sure?"

Wickerly—"Sure! Why, my dear man, I haven't had the slightest occasion to charge my mind since then. I've seen her under all conditions. Our course from the start was to be perfectly candid with each other. I've seen that girl in her own heme under the most prosade surroundings. Why, my dear fellow, I've gone out in the kitchen with her and seen her cook. Then I've seen her away from home, at the seashere, in the mountains, in society, Every thought of hers has been revealed to me."

Sardstone—"But perhaps your love has blinded you."

Wickerly—"Nonsense! When you say that you don't understand me. If I'm anything I'm critical. Not only that, but I don't claim that she is perfect any more than I am. But the main point is that I understand her. I know what I'm getting. That's everything."

Sandstone—"Let me congratulate you again, old man." (Enthusiastically.) "I really didn't realize before what a bright girl you have."

Wickerly—"Think so, do you?"

Sandstone—"She must be if she has succeeded in making you think that you knew her."

The exercises were different from those usually held, in that only two out of the line members of the class took any part, except to sit upon the stage and look pleasant. U. Porley Bell delivered the salutatory, and Miss Edith Britton the valedictory. The address of the evening was by Chancellor F. H. Snow, of the state university. There was music by the Forest City orchestra, a violin solo by Miss Mamie Hoffmans, and vocal solos by Miss Grace L. Denslow and Mrs. R. C. Krueger.

To-night the Alumnal Association gave its second annual reception and banquet at the G. A. R. hall, with the class of '97 as the guests of honor. It was a swell affair. TO TRAVELING MEN.

Proclamation by King Ki Ki, of the Karnival Krewe, That Means Much to Loyal Subjects.

To our most loyal subjects, the peregrin-ating disciples of commerce, yelept ye drummers, to whose labors our kingdom i o largely indebted for its prosperity, this, our royal proclamation is addressed: Knowing well from our past experience that it is only necessary to remind you

Knowing well from our past experience that it is only necessary to remind you that the time for our fall festivities is drawing near, and that you, as our most loyal subjects, should, as in previous years, in your journeys throughout our kingdom and its neighboring provinces, while in the marts of trade, in the houses of entertainment and in the public conveyances, continually remind the merchants, money changers, innkeepers and travelers that they should begin to hoard their shekels, preparatory to making their annual pilgrimage to our capitol, and spending the first week of October in our midst.

You will assure them that to witness our Karnival of Nations will be worth many days' journeying and the price of many a piece of gold; that if they wish peace and joy forever after, they will bring their women folk and all their kinfolks to witness our Flower parade, the spiendor of which no mortal eye has ever before gazed upon. And you will kindly and very discreetly intimate to our friends in the interior of our kingdom, as well as of the neighboring provinces, that while some of our sister cities are to have autumnal festivities, there will be only one whose magnificence will attract the people from all climes, and whose splendor will outshine the sun at noonday, and that that one is to be held in Kansas City during the first week of October next following.

Given under our royal hand and seal, this list day of May, 1897. KI KI, King. Attest: HI HI, Secretary.

a Man on a Bench.

From the New York Sun.

Thomas A. Pratt, of 258 Seventh avenue, became interested in raising chickens. Frank S. Noon had a chicken farm down on Staten island. He sold a half interest in it to Pratt for 559. Pratt paid Noon $59 down. Later Mrs. Pratt paid the $590 to Noon, telling him to deposit it to the credit of the chicken firm in the New York National bank. Noon went to the bank, and when about to deposit the money asked for a blank check, so that he might draw $55 out after putting in the $250. By special chicken-firm agreement he had been authorized to draw the firm's money, having the same right as his partner. Pratt. But the bank cashier suggested that to save bother he keep the $55 out and deposit $125. He took the cashier's advice, and then Mrs. Pratt had him indicted for larceny.

Noon was on trial yesterday in the general sessions. Judge Cowing smilled when he heard the testimony, and told the jury

Noon was on trial yesterilay in the general sessions. Judge Cowing smiled when he heard the testimony, and told the jury to acquit the defendant, saying: "These facts do not constitute larceny." Oh, yes, they do," said Mrs. Pratt; "I know the law; if the money had been deposited in the bank. Noon could have drawn it out as a partner. But before it was deposited he was only my messenger and he stole the money. That's the law, ludge."

"Madam," said his honor, "I am here to interpret the law, and I have told you there is no case of larceny. This is a civil matter." eivil matter."
"Why, judge, I know you are a lawyer," argued Mrs. Pratt, "but perhaps you have made a mistake. The grand jury does not agree with you."
"I am really sorry for that," remarked the judge, smiling, "but as a matter of fact I've got kind of accustomed to it. The defendant should never have been indicted."
